- Applications are reviewed and prioritized by Oregon Child Abuse Solutions, Regional Children's Advocacy Centers, and the Oregon Department of Justice, based on regional training needs, position, and agency representation.

Need for Training

How will you apply OCFIT to your job? The information you provide will be used to prioritize your application:

Where do you interview and what kind(s) of interviewing do you do?

This information is used to prioritize your application. For purposes of this training, interview types are defined as follows:

An initial responder interview is a minimal-facts interview conducted in the field by initial responders such as law enforcement officers and/or Department of Human Services Child Welfare Personnel. These interviews elicit just enough information to establish safety and determine the need for a criminal investigation and/or an immediate medical evaluation. This interview typically takes place during the initial responder's first contact with the child/family and may be followed by an in-depth forensic interview.

A forensic interview is a developmentally sensitive and legally sound structured conversation with a child intended to elicit detailed information about a possible event(s) that the child may have experienced or witnessed. Forensic interviews are coordinated to avoid duplicative interviewing, follow research-based guidelines, and are conducted by trained professionals who participate in ongoing peer review, ideally in a child-friendly environment, such as a CAC.

What kinds of interviews do you do? Please select all that apply.

___ Initial Responder Interviews

___ Forensic Interviews at a non-CAC location

___ I conduct Forensic Interviews at a CAC, or will conduct Forensic Interviews at a CAC once trained.

If you conduct Forensic Interviews at a non-CAC location, please describe where you conduct these interviews:
